School funding bond passes
Published on November 3rd, 2010 4:40 am
By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Proposition B is a $397.2 million school and university funding ballot measure which has had little organized opposition.

Voters on Tuesday approved the measure with about 59 percent of the vote.

In addition to a proposed Life Sciences Classroom and Laboratory Facility at the University of Alaska Fairbanks, the measure would pay for a pool at the Mount Edgecumbe boarding school near Sitka, three new K-12 schools in rural Alaska, and part of a new state museum and archive in Juneau.

It is the biggest education-focused borrowing plan since Alaska's statehood.

Contact us about this article at editor@thearcticsounder.com